VENUE

The conference will be held in Villa Vigoni, a center founded by the German Federal Republic and the Italian Republic with the aim to foster the relationships between Italy and Germany in the fields of scientific research, higher education and culture, in addition to their impact in the economy, in the society and in politics. The residence was acquired in 1829 by Heinrich Mylius and Luigia Vitali. The latter, young widow, married Ignazio Vigoni for her second marriage. Their grandson, who bore the same name of Luigia's husband, Ignazio Vigoni junior (1905-1983), bequeathed the property at Lake Como to the Federal Republic of Germany in order to "honour" the friendship of his ancestor Heinrich Mylius with Johann Wolfgang Goethe and Alessandro Manzoni and to keep the tradition of German-Italian relations alive, a purpose that the Association Villa Vigoni has been serving since that time.
